DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Claim 8 recites the limitation that the retainer does not include a heat resisting resin as a component thereof. This limitation is so broad and unclear that the scope of the invention cannot be determined. Moreover, the recited limitation is unclear, as it is not understood how a heat resisting resin is defined. It is understood by the examiner that the claimed resins used to make the retainer are, in fact, heat resisting resins. Therefore, it is not clear as to how the retainer does not include a heat resisting resin.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3682

4. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ueno et al. (5,807,920).

Regarding claims 1-6, Ueno et al. discloses a rolling bearing comprising inner and outer members rotatable relative to each other, a plurality of rolling elements rotatably interposed between said inner and outer members and a retainer (H), made of a synthetic resin (polyamide 46, polyphenylene sulfide, or PEEK) containing glass or carbon fibers within the claimed ranges, rotatably holding said rolling elements. Ueno et al. is silent as to the properties of the resin composition of the retainer.

However, it would have been obvious to make the retainer out of a resin having the claimed properties since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Moreover, it would be inherent for the claimed materials having the specified glass or carbon composition to have the properties as described in Claim 1.

Regarding claim 7, Ueno et al. discloses a retainer prepared in such an arrangement that the entire inner circumference acts as a mold gate.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed March 5, 2003, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-7 under Tanimoto et al. have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Ueno et al. (5,870,920).
